Law of Newspapers.

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.

If subscribers order the discontinuance of their paper, all that is done to pay for it.

If subscribers treat or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible till they have settled their bills and withdrawn their papers discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places, without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

The courts have decided that refusing to take a paper from the office, or removing and leaving it with the carrier, is prima facie evidence of intent to treat.

A subscriber neglecting to inform us when his paper is taken from the office, makes himself liable for his subscription price.
